

"Everything's Back to Normal in New York City!"

Below Canal: A Work in Progress

Photo by Carl Glassman/The Tribeca Trib

Among the countless artistic responses to the Sept. 11 attacks, "Everything's Back to Normal in New York City," may be the richest repository of voices. The ironically titled theater piece from the Downtown Community Resource Center... is based on months of interviews with witnesses – from an Independence Plaza tenant who helped care for her neighbors to a chaplain who worked at the site to a man's meditations on the loss of his grandson. -- Tribeca Trib

Performances of the DCRC Theater Project's "Everything's Back to Normal in New York City! Below Canal: a Work in Progress," directed by Abigail Gampel, will resume at HERE - 145 6th Avenue (on Dominick -- 1 block below Spring Street)- on September 28, 29 and 30 at 7:30 pm. Suggested tax deductible donation to the Downtown Community Resource Center: $10 per person. To make reservations, please call 212-998-7619.

Starring: Carolyn Baeumler, Chad Coleman, Chris Cuomo, Christine Farrell, Jennifer Odishoo, Esther Perel, Steven Reisner and Steve Rattazzi.
Peter Wareing, videographer

Each performance is followed by a talk back session with the artists on the themes of tragedy, bearing witness, and the role of the arts.

The Downtown Community Resource Center was created in the aftermath of 9/11 to honor and support people living and working downtown in their efforts to revitalize their communities. DCRC is sponsored by the New York University Center for Catastrophe Preparedness and Response and supported by Project Liberty and the New York Times Company Foundation 9/11 Fund.
<http://www.communityresilience.org/nyc>